From the Team Leader's Desk

Dear Partners,

Welcome to the 4th and last edition of our organization's newsletter for 2014. In this quarter, VFC was privileged to have 6 members of its networking partners participate in various meetings and consultation in Melbourne sponsored by one of its partners, the International Development Agency (IWDA). Please read more in this edition.

Under our Advocacy Program on Ending Violence Against Women/Children and Building Safer Homes/Communities, VFC trained a total of 77 people from Sigiri and Kisap in North Whagi. It also facilitated a follow-up training on Basic Trauma Counselling for its Women Human Right Defenders representatives from Jiwaka, Simbu and EHP.

It is also noted that the number of survivors affected by various forms of violence visiting our office for various support is increasing.

Also under its LLH Program, VFC facilitated various capacity building trainings for its Village Agricultural Extension Workers and their contact farmers on the basics of growing vegetables and financial literacy.

2014 ended with VFC reaching out to many people with information and training and it has touched many people in so many different ways. VFC is gradually getting recognition from both the local and international communities on its bottom up approach to addressing issues.

In this edition VFC is also introducing new members who joined the organization.

Please join me to applaud the commitment of the team, our partners in Jiwaka and our donors.

Learning Tour to Melbourne

The International Women's Development Agency (IWDA) facilitated a trip for representatives from PNG and Solomon Island to visit the Victoria Local Government this quarter. The aim of the Learning tour was to learn about how the Victoria Local Level Government in Melbourne is integrating Gender Equality initiatives into its activities.

The PNG team included the Advisor Local Level Government Services Advisor of Jiwaka Province, Mr. David Wamea, Ms Sina Joe, Women Economic Empowerment Program Coordinator, and Voice for Change Team Leader Lilly Be'Soer. It is noted that PNG and Jiwaka has a lot to learn from the Victoria Local Government

Learning Tour team from the Solomon Island and PNG in Melbourne.

COUNSELLING SERVICES

FOLLOW-UP TRAUMA COUNSELLING TRAINING

Earlier this year, twenty six participants from different organizations from Chimbu, Eastern Highlands, Western Highlands and Jiwaka have undergone two weeks of intensive training on Basic Trauma Counselling.

A follow-up training was conducted this quarter with Voice for Change organizing the logistic and participants, funded by IWDA. It was a time of reflection where successes and challenges were shared. The participants remarked they were more confident after the first training.

The training was facilitated by Sr. Lorraine Garasu, Coordinator of the Nazareth Centre for Rehabilitation, and Mary Kini, Coordinator for Kup Women for Peace. Many people have requested another trauma counselling.

Voice for Change is engaging two counsellors to provide basic trauma counselling. Wendi Kosi provides counselling to survivors approaching the Family Support Centre at Minj, and Regina Image conducts counselling at the Voice for Change Office. Both work three days a week: Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The project, funded by Oxfam International in PNG under the Ending Violence Against Women (EVAW) program, aims to see change (healing) in the deepest thoughts and hearts of every person who has been affected by different forms of abuse and violence.

INTRODUCTION OF NEW STAFF

The two Trauma Counsellors engaged in providing basic counselling:

Wendi Kosi
"I have started counselling way back as a volunteer. With the trauma counselling training I have received, I am able to manage the cases at my level. I often get emotional when attending to SURVIVORS coming to the office. I even commit my extra hours to help them".

Regina Image

"Since I joined VFC in May this year, there have been so many survivors who have visited us. I find it challenging, sometimes lost for words to talk when survivors come with their deepest thoughts and express their innermost feelings".

Maggie Ravu

Maggie is a new Project Support staff under Women Economic Empowerment Program.

'I enjoy working with the organization and I like working with farmers and members of VFC. I am learning a lot and gradually moving forward with confidence'

Alex Kennick

"As a part time driver with VFC, I have learnt a lot from the organization. I am proud to help in whatever way I can to make our province a better place to live."

WORKSHOP HIGHLIGHTS

The Organization's Team Leader participated at the CSO consultation in Bangkok. It was a good learning experience and an opportunity to meet many women who did similar work on social justice for women worldwide. ## RAPID RESPONSE TEAM PROJECT (RRT)

The number of innocent lives lost through sorcery related violence is increasing every year. A lot of homes are being destroyed, families displaced, complete loss of livelihood, lack of decent meals, and no income. Children are affected the most as there is no foundation for their future. Women survivors have been abused physically and sexually. These survivors are vulnerable to further attacks as their value, integrity and power are all jeopardized.

Voice for Change, through its RRT Project, responds to survivors of Sorcery Related Violence.

The project responds by providing;

- Medical assistance
- Paralegal service
- Counselling
- Integrates them back to their communities

The project also responds to Gender Based Violence. It is noted that the number of deserted wives and children approaching the office on daily bases is increasing..

This quarter, VfC received 70 survivors, both of sorcery and Gender Based Violence incidents, and provided various support where it was able to.

From the Project Coordinator Desk

"Voice for Change has seen an increased number of clients coming to the office. Survivors of the sorcery related violence were assisted resettling them back to their community, with the support from Law enforcing Agencies. We have received success stories from survivors who have come by the office and have received help in one way or the other.

Young Men and Boys Program

Voice for Change's work on male advocacy is progressing. The Kuma Cowboys Rugby team are showing positive behavioral change of becoming better citizens in the community. The team have compiled a team by-law that the players abide by.

Voice for Change had an opportunity to have a session on good sportsmanship with Tombil Ondam Roosters, a local rugby team.

The session focused on RESPECT. They were urged to respect women and girls in the community, and be role models in the community.

1. FRUIT AND VEGETABLE PRODUCTION

The Fruit and Vegetable Production program is spreading rapidly in the province with the continuous support and effort from the Office of Voice for Change, through its Extension Workers and Zone Leaders

The Fruit and Vegetable Production Project has positively impacted the lives of many families in Jiwaka. It has encouraged people to make the most of what is at hand to sustain themselves. Most farmers are deserted wives, widows and single mothers, survivors of Gender and Sorcery Based Violence. The farmers are reached through the 8 Extension Workers twice a week and bringing in reports at the end of the month. The regular visits and trainings by VFC in partnership with Oxfam empowers Contact Farmers and encourages new interests.

This quarter, the Extension Workers and Zone Leaders have carried out a total of six trainings. The trainings are as follows:

i.) Two Finance Literacy Trainings for farmers in Kudjip and Minj area. A total of 50 farmers were trained on:

- Money Management
- Budgeting
- Savings
- Debt Management

ii) Four Horticulture Training for 117 Farmers of both North and South Whagi were trained. Topics covered:

1. Compost making
2. Soil sterilization
3. Field Nursery
4. Seed varieties
5. Sequence planting
6. Appropriate use of pesticides
7. Appropriate post-harvest management

The trainings are new to most of the participants, who were very appreciative. The number of participants is increasing every quarter. More requests for the trainings are being received by the office and we need more support and funding to meet demand.

Project Coordinator, Sina Joe

"It is a pleasure to see positive changes in the lives of the Extension Workers and Contact Farmers who have benefited from the project. The success stories empowers the project."

Voice for Change is also networking with other stakeholders to develop the capacities and farming techniques of its Extension Workers farmers. The Australian International Agricultural Research (ACIAR)/ Fresh Produce Development Community FPDA team conducted training on the post harvest management and cost of production to the 38 farmers; 11 males and 27 females. The outcome of the training was good. The participants commented that they have never done cost of production and gross margin. They learnt new techniques in working out the profit from their Production cost and they really appreciated the training. Voice for Change also receives requests for training on fishery, poultry and other areas of Agriculture.

Four of them actually went out campaigning with the badge, both in secondary schools and primary schools. More than one hundred students were reached. One student was asked by the class teacher to explain why she was wearing the badge, she confidently explained all about Ending Violence Against Women and Girls and the meaning of 16 Days of Activism.

Another ten year old boy was asked by his teacher what the badge was all about, and he bravely told him 'we as men must stop Violence Against Women and protect & uphold their rights of Women/Girls'.

Youth and Male Advocates were also given badges with brief on 16 Days of Activism UNiTE Campaign

CAPACITY BUILDING FOR COMMUNITY LEADERS ON HUMAN RIGHTS.

Voice for Change takes a bottom-up approach in addressing issues on Gender Based Violence and Ending Violence Against Women and Girls in Jiwaka, by starting with the communities. It has trained more than 80 participants in the North Whagi area, as published in the previous newsletter issues. The participants and leaders made positive comments after the trainings. Family members have commented on the changes that can be seen in those who have participated in the trainings. More requests of similar trainings are flooding in. The core group formed at the end of the training is working on the community by-laws. Follow up and reflection meetings have been conducted. Additional trainings on identifying the leaders good governance and how to build a good community is being explored.

IWDA PARTNERS (FLOW) MEETING

The Funding Leadership Opportunities for Women (FLOW) Program, funded by IWDA, held its annual meeting in Melbourne, Australia. The program helps build the confidence and capacity of women to have a voice in the decision making.

Voice for Change had four staff represent; both from within the organization and its networking partners.

The meeting was a reflection on the successes and challenges faced in implementing the activities. Partners from the Pacific had to share their experiences and discover ways that the partners could work together in the year 2015.

IWDA is providing separate funding to set up Jiwaka Human Rights Defenders, commencing early next month.

To IWDA, the participants are grateful for the trip and are motivated to implement the activities for 2015.

2. SAVINGS & LOANS CLUB

Savings and Loans Club is of great benefit to many women. Most of the savings club members have been trained by the organization on vegetable production.

The savings club has saved their money from spending as said by most members. Money saved at home could even be taken away by the husband and children.

With the trainings provided by VFC in partnership with Oxfam, famers (also members) were asked to set their goals in vegetable production and through regular savings, they were able to achieve these goals. Many are spouses coming to learn to save together.

Below is a graph of the total savings and withdrawals this quarter. About 11 new members registered into the Scheme this quarter.

The graph indicates members coming in with more savings than withdrawals, but for the last month December, there was a more withdrawal to cater for children's educational expenses.

KUGAR FARMERS TRAINING CENTER

The farmers from Kugar in Kudjip have been keen to put into practice the knowledge and skills they have learnt from Voice for Change. From the Horticulture and Finance Literacy Training, they were able to save up to build a Semi Permanent Resource Center. Currently they are continuing to work cooperatively to purchase furniture for the building.

COMMUNITY -

PERSONAL DETAILS:

Name: Mr. Matthew Galman

Place of Origin: Kaipela Village, Banz. North Waghi District, Jiwaka Province, PNG.

Occupation/Tite: Coordinator – Nazarene Community Based Health Care PNG.

Brief History: I am a nursing officer, I am now coordinating the Nazarene Health Ministries division of Community Based Health Care PNG here in Kudjip, Jiwaka Province. Community Based Health Care is a preventative health care program that deals with roots causes of poor health in communities in PNG.

I have one wife, three daughters, aged 16, 13 and six, and a son who is two months old.

I have been with Nazarene Community Based Health Care for the last six years. Before that, we served in a very remote and isolated community in the Sepik River called Hauna, in Ambunti Drekiikier District in East Sepik Province. We were the only health care provider for a population of over 7000 people.

As a community Development worker, what are the major challenges and issues you face? How can we best address it?

As a church community development worker, our greatest challenge is to try to lead people to the realization that the way they are living now is not the only way of life and that they have the power and the will to change to make for a better life. Helping to find and achieve Holistic (physical, spiritual, social, environmental, economical) transformation of people’s lives is our core business. The sad story is that we often find individuals and families in communities who are usually crippled by the cargo cult type of mentality where they do not want to take up the responsibility to make the much needed change. They often sit and wait in expectancy for someone else to do it for them or postpone it to another time. With PNG’s wantok system and the government’s handout mentality, as a nation, we are heading down a road towards disaster.

Recognizing, strengthening and financially empowering organizations that focus on creating community awareness, promoting personal viability, providing community education, promoting gender equality and generally helping people to become an asset within themselves and their family and community instead of become a liability is the what I see as a long term solution to most of our cross cutting issues.

In community development work, how does it feel to see gradual change as anticipated?

A change, a gradual change, as long as it is genuine and that it leads to a change in one’s attitudes for the better, is a relief.

As a community change maker, what would be your advice to Jiwaka the new province?

As above: Read my last paragraph.

Additional comment:

I am proud to be working in partnership with likeminded organization in PNG like Voice for Change. It is a blessing to the people of Jiwaka. We are faced with a very challenging task but I am really proud of the management and staff of VFC for their heartfelt concern for our people and especially our mothers, sisters and daughters. Thank you, Voice for Change.

CHANGE MAKERS

AMENDA WUSIK

Amenda Wusik is one of the eight Extension Workers of VFC and a Women Human Rights Defender, trained as trainer on Gender Based Violence and Human Rights. She is also a recipient of the Community Integration Education Program, for seven months in Fiji. She has also undergone other short capacity building training, both within and outside of the country.

What are the issues you deal with as a Community Development Worker?

As an Extension Worker, I work with mothers, mostly deserted wives and single mothers. I was also a deserted wife who had no way to start. Words can’t tell how much I appreciate the work of VFC in bringing hope into my life. It has programs that help us become self-reliant rather than blaming our situations. Feeding from my personal experience, I gave my best to help other women. I have trained most mothers on fruit and vegetable production which is greatly impacting the lives of the farmers positively. The mothers have now found their strength to stand on their own.

The issue most mothers face is that they lack the support from their children and spouse. Again with the Gender Based Violence and Human Rights Training, most youth have admitted to be ignorant of their obligation and responsibilities, leaving roles to their parents, especially mothers. After the trainings, they have made personal commitment to work together with their wives and mothers. Voice for Change has some rewarding programs and if everyone in the house is trained, especially on Gender Based Violence and other Livelihood Trainings, our homes will be heaven on earth..

How does it feel to see the changes anticipated?

When the farmers I trained utilize the skills and knowledge we impart to them and begin to change their lifestyle and standard of living with the income, it gives me satisfaction. Hearing success stories and getting positive feedback from those we have trained makes me want to reach out for more. I am ever willing to impart my skills/knowledge that will contribute to a better living.

VFC always has its doors open to those who want to change. Together we all will make a difference.

Farmers taken thorough the compost making process by Amenda on two different occasions.

What will be your message to Jiwaka, our new province?

Jiwaka is blessed with a beautiful landscape topped off with a fertile soil. This soil is like a mother ready to provide for all our needs. This land can build us a permanent house, buy us car, pay our health and tuition fees, give us anything we wish for if we get our hands dirty. Nothing will come out of it if we do nothing out of it.

Therefore, we must make use of the land, do vegetable production or engage in small scale livestock production and at least have an alternative income generation.

As Amenda says, ‘Our land is our life’.
